VNI West

Professional advice and support for landholders impacted by VNI West

If you own property within the VNI West route, you are highly encouraged to seek your own independent professional advice during easement negotiations. This may include qualified valuation, legal, accounting, insurance or agronomy services.

Engaging your own experts to assist you during this process is incredibly important because they are there to ensure you receive the best outcome. These services are available to help review agreements and documentation, provide advice and negotiate on your behalf.

VicGrid will reimburse all reasonable professional expenses, regardless of whether an agreement is reached or not.

There are industry organisations, independent and not associated with VicGrid, who can help you find experienced and local experts who provide these services.

Valuation advice

The Australian Property Institute (API) is the largest industry body representing property valuers. The API has a dedicated referral directory for the VNI West Project so you can easily find local and experienced valuers and agronomists.

This can be found at www.api.org.au/expressions-of-interest-independent-valuers-for-landholders-affected-by-vni/

The API can also be phoned on 1800 111 API (1800 111 274).

Legal advice

The Law Institute of Victoria (LIV) is the peak body for the Victorian legal profession. They have an online referral service which enables you to search for lawyers who are local, and/or specialise in property and planning law.
